

First Aid rules are changing from October 2009

- Any workplace with 5 people or more may need trained first aiders by law
- There is a new risk assessment to be completed by all employers
- New HSE approved 1 day course
- First aid at work (FAW) now 3 days with compulsory annual updates

Fail to comply and you could face charges of corporate manslaughter

Professional, affordable First Aid training

Could you save a life?

The law requires every business to have suitable first aid provision

MEDICAL SERVICES

Why WANT Medical Services?

For the last ten years we have trained single traders to national operations such as H&M (Hennes & Mauritz UK Ltd), across the United Kingdom and Ireland in environments from retail shops to warehouses, offices and even farms.

Our trainers are all experienced first aiders and ambulance staff who speak from experience, not just from a PowerPoint slide!

Customised training

We always train your staff to the latest standards, and where possible use information relevant to your business, using past data and integrating your own policies to maximise the effectiveness of your investment.

Talk to us about your specific needs and how we can incorporate your company data into our courses, making them part of on-going training

Our Courses

Appointed Person

The minimum suggested level of training for all companies. (6 hours from Oct)

Appointed Person with Paediatrics

The basic course with the addition of specific training on treating children and babies. Essential for all those working with children of any age (8 hours from Oct)

First Aid at Work (FAW)

The HSE standard first aid course is the standard for all workplace first aiders to reach and covers all aspects of workplace first aid.

The course lasts 4 days (3 days from October 2009) and needs to be refreshed every three years by a qualified training organisation.

First Aid at Work Updates

From October 2009, all first aiders MUST complete a half day refresher every year in order to stay qualified.

Talk to us about making this fit in to your regular company training schedule.

Manual Handling

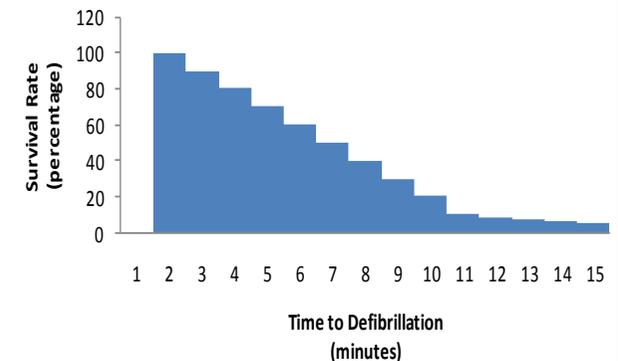

Courses in the safe handling of loads, including lifting and carrying. A basic course is 3 hours long, or we can customise a course to your company and its specific needs

Automated External Defibrillator

227,000 people suffer heart attacks in the UK every year
(British Heart Foundation)

AEDs are simple to use items of equipment which save lives

The chance of survival decreases dramatically minute by minute, and after 8 minutes, the chance of survival is less than 40%

The target time for the ambulance service is 8 minutes!

The training takes as little as two hours, and machines cost from £1000, a small price to pay for peace of mind.

We can advise you on purchasing and placement of defibrillators in your workplace.

Custom Courses

We can offer other courses tailored to your business, including advanced skills such as patient handling, spinal care, oxygen therapy and more. Talk to us for more details.
